

Exp. 3 Post-lab question

1. A student performed the extraction experiments, after completed all the steps. The student obtains one product, carboxylic acid, only; however, two products are expected to be obtained. The melting range of the product is 8 °C. Assume there human error(s) involve. What would be the most likely reason for such a failure? Explain.