The mathematics curriculum has not prepared students with the numeracy skills nor the quantitative confidence required in today's society.

It has produced many functionally innumerate people.

QL involves mathematics acting in the real world. It is an integral part of all subjects. Mathematics is not able to do that.